

Privacy Policy Website

Burrus Development Group ("we", "us" or "our") operates the website <https://www.fynka.com/> (the "Website") and is responsible for collecting, processing and using your personal data in compliance with the applicable data protection law.

We take the protection of data seriously and ensure appropriate security. We observe the statutory provisions of the Swiss Act on Data Protection ("FADP"), the Ordinance to the Swiss Act on Data Protection ("OFADP"), the Swiss Telecommunications Act ("TCA") and other applicable data protection provisions of Swiss and international law.

In this privacy policy, we inform about what personal data we collect from you and for what purposes we use it.

If you have any questions regarding data protection, you can get you in touch with us by sending an email to legal@burrusdevelopment.com.

1. Data processing in connection with our website

1.1. What data do we collect when you visit our website?

When you visit our Website, our servers temporarily store each access in a log file. The following technical data is collected without your intervention and stored by us, as in principle with every connection to a web server:

- the IP address of the requesting computer;
- the operating system of your computer;
- the browser you are using (type, version and language);
- name of the IP address range;
- the date and time of the server request;
- the web page from which access was made (referrer URL), possibly with the search terms used; and
- the status code (for example, error message, debug information).

The collection and processing of these data are carried out for the purpose of enabling the use of our Website (establishing a connection), ensuring system security and stability over the long term and optimising our internet presence as well as for internal statistical purposes. It is within our legitimate interest to process such data to offer you a well-functioning website.

The IP address will also be used together with the other data in the event of attacks on the network infrastructure or other unauthorised or abusive use of the Website to identify offenders in connection with civil or criminal proceedings. The processing of this data is in our legitimate interest to track your visit to our Website and to improve the website accordingly.

1.2. What data do we collect when you request a demo?

You can use our "request a demo" form to get in touch with us. For this we need the following information:

- First name;
- Last name;
- Email address;
- Phone; and
- Your message.

We only use these data as well as any additional information voluntarily provided by you (e.g. name or telephone number) in order to answer your request for a demo of our product in the best possible and personalised way. The processing of this data is therefore in our legitimate interest to show you how our product works.

1.3. What are cookies? Do we need cookies?

Cookies help in many ways to make the use of our Website easier, more enjoyable and more meaningful. Cookies are information files that your web browser automatically saves on your device's hard drive when you visit our Website. In particular, we use the following cookies:

- technically necessary cookies;
- performance cookies; and
- functional cookies.

We use these cookies, for example, to temporarily store your entries when filling out a form on the Website, so that you do not have to repeat the entry when calling up another subpage.

Usually cookies are accepted automatically. However, you can disable the function so that no cookies are stored on your device or a message always appears when you receive a new cookie.

Disabling cookies may prevent you from using all features of our website.

2. Storage and exchange of data with third parties

2.1. Where do we store your data?

We store the data collected with our server host in Geneva, Switzerland.

2.2. How long will my data be kept?

We only store personal data for as long as is necessary to use the above-described processing activities.

Contract data is stored by us for a longer period of time, as this is prescribed by statutory obligations. Obligations to store data may arise out of accounting law, civil law and tax law. According to these laws, business communication, concluded contracts and accounting vouchers must be stored for up to 10 years.

2.3. Will my data be disclosed to other third parties?

We only disclose your personal data to third parties if you have given express consent, if there is a legal obligation to do so or if this is necessary to enforce our rights, in particular to enforce claims arising from the contractual relationship.

In addition, we may disclose your data to third parties such as our affiliates, collaborators, partners or service providers such as IT partners and our Website developer insofar as this is necessary for the development or the use of the Website.

2.4. Do we transfer personal data abroad?

We are entitled to transfer your personal data to third parties abroad for the purpose of the data processing described in this Privacy Policy. These third parties are bound to protect data to the same extent as we are. If the level of data protection in a country does not correspond to that in Switzerland or the EU/ EEA, we will contractually ensure that the protection of your personal data corresponds to that in Switzerland, the EU/EEA at all times.

3. Anything else you need to know?

3.1. You have a right of access, rectification, deletion and limitation of the processing as well as of data transferability

You have a right to request information about the personal data that we store about you. In addition, you have a right to correct incorrect data and a right to request deletion of your personal data, insofar as there is no legal obligation to retain such data and no legal basis for further processing the existing data.

You also have a right to request the data that you have provided to us in a portable form (right to data portability). Upon request, we will transfer your data to a third party of your choice. You have a right to receive the data in a common file format.

You can contact us for the aforementioned purposes via the e-mail address legal@burrusdevelopment.com. In order to process your requests, we may request proof of your identity.

In many countries, you also have the right to file a complaint with the relevant data protection authority if you have concerns about how we process your data.

These rights depend on the applicable data protection legislation and may be either more limited or more comprehensive.

3.2. Is your data safe with us?

We use suitable technical and organisational security measures to protect your personal data stored with us against manipulation, partial or complete loss and against unauthorised access by third parties. Our security measures are continuously improved in line with technological developments.

We also care about data protection internally. Our employees and service providers are contractually obliged to ensure confidentiality of personal data and compliance with applicable data protection laws.

3.3. Which law do we apply? And where does the law apply?

This Privacy Policy and the contracts concluded on the basis of or in connection with this Privacy Policy are subject to Swiss law, unless the law of another country is mandatory.

The place of jurisdiction shall be Geneva, Switzerland, unless another place of jurisdiction is mandatory.

3.4. Can this policy be amended?

Should individual parts of this Privacy Policy be invalid, this shall not affect the validity of the rest of the Privacy Policy. The invalid part of this Privacy Policy shall be replaced in such a way that it comes as close as possible to the economically intended purpose of the invalid part.

Due to the further development of our Website and offers or changes to the statutory requirements, it may become necessary to amend this Privacy Policy. The most current Privacy Policy is published on our Website.

3.5. Questions about data protection? Please contact us.
